

JOE GROSS

Trumpeter, flugelhornist, composer, and arranger Joe Gross started playing cornet at age 10, switched over to the trumpet at age 12 and has been at it ever since. Joe started playing professionally at age 15, soon becoming one of the most in demand trumpet players in the Chicago area. In 1995, Joe also auditioned for and won a position with the Jazz Knights, a component of the United States Military Academy Band, where he remained a regular member and featured soloist until January, 2003. Mr. Gross currently resides in Nashville, Tennessee, and is very active in the music scene, performing with many great musicians.
